Record Type	1	1	1	A/N	REQ	Always A  Rule If this field is populated with a value other than 'A', CBRS will drop the record as unknown
Record Length	4	2	5	NUM	REQ	Always 1000
Record Content Indicator	2	6	7	A/N	REQ	Values: 01 = Original asset record 02 = Corrected asset record 03 = Firm reject record 04 = Request record  Edit If field is 02 = Corrected asset record , at least one accompanying tax lot record must have a value of 02 = Corrected tax lot record in its Record Content Indicator field  Note: there is no edit between the Corrected asset record and the previous Original asset record  Note: the value 03 = Firm reject record refers to a record that the receiver of the original or corrected asset record cannot apply to its system. The firm reject record is different from a system reject, where CBRS rejects a submitted record—regardless of record content indicator—because the record violates system rules and edits. For example, if the submitter populates the Date Transfer was Initiated field with a date of 01/35/2011, CBRS will reject the record because 01/35/2011 is not a valid calendar date. This is a system reject. On the other hand, if a submitter sends an asset record with a quantity of 1,000 shares, and the receiver has only one position of 500 shares on its books, the receiver can send a reject record to the submitter because the receiver cannot apply 1,000 shares of cost basis to a 500 share position. This is a firm reject.

The firm reject record is different from a system reject, where CBRS rejects a submitted record—regardless of record content indicator—because the record violates system rules and edits. For example, if the submitter populates the Date Transfer was Initiated field with a date of 01/35/2011, CBRS will reject the record because 01/35/2011 is not a valid calendar date. This is a system reject. On the other hand, if a submitter sends an asset record with a quantity of 1,000 shares, and the receiver has only one lot of 500 shares on its books, the receiver can send a reject record to the submitter because the receiver cannot apply 1,000 shares of cost basis to a 500 share lot. This is a firm reject.
