Behind the Book
The Great BIG Water Tanks of DTCC

The Young People of DTCC
With over 45 years of experience, DTCC is the premier post-trade market infrastructure for the global financial services industry. From operating facilities, data centers and offices in 15 countries, DTCC, through its subsidiaries, automates, centralizes and standardizes the processing of financial transactions, mitigating risk, increasing transparency and driving efficiency for thousands of broker/dealers, custodian banks and asset managers. Industry owned and governed, the firm simplifies the complexities of clearing, settlement, asset servicing, data management, data reporting and information services across asset classes, bringing increased security and soundness to financial markets. In 2019, DTCC’s subsidiaries processed securities transactions valued at more than U.S. $2.15 quadrillion. Its depository provides custody and asset servicing for securities issues from 170 countries and territories valued at U.S. $63.0 trillion. DTCC’s Global Trade Repository service, through locally registered, licensed, or approved trade repositories, processes over 14 billion messages annually. About the Program

In 2020, the DTCC Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) team wanted to engage employees and their children with the annual theme of sustainability and recycling. Behind the Book (BtB) suggested a program around The Water Princess by Susan Verde, a true story about a young girl who carries water for her family daily which reminds its readers about the importance of conserving water to preserve our environment.

It was decided that the three DTCC offices would participate at 5PM in their regions on the same day and invitations were sent out to all. The first 300 people to RSVP received autographed copies of The Water Princess.

Susan started the workshop by leading the groups in a short round of yoga poses the same way that she begins her day.

Then she talked about her connection to Georgie Badiel, the woman whose story she tells in the book. She explained that the girls from the village had to travel the equivalent of seven football fields to get to the well every day. She also said that the buckets they carry on their heads hold five gallons which is enough to serve one family for one day. In the US, each family uses an average of 552 gallons per day.

BtB Teaching Artist Candice Humphries, led a lesson in activist art which communicates a message through art. She taught the participants the technique of ‘wax resist,’ where you first draw with crayons, then cover with watercolor paint, making the crayoned designs pop out.

The assignment: Make a water tower with an action message for the reader reminding people that water is precious and can’t be wasted.

We hope you enjoy their efforts as much as we did.

About the Visiting Author

Susan grew up in Greenwich Village in New York City. As a young person she kept a piece of chalk in her pocket (for spontaneous hopscotch) and her skate key around her neck, ready for the next adventure. She found inspiration everywhere and loved to write all about it!

Now Susan lives by the sea in East Hampton, New York with her three children and their dog, Gizmo. She still finds inspiration everywhere and writes it all down!

In addition to writing books for kids she also teaches yoga and mindfulness to children of all ages. She is a yogi herself and is still working on her headstand.

She is the author of the 13 books for young people including the I Am series. Her newest will be out next September called, I Am Courage: A Book of Resilience. She also has a Feel Good Fairy Tales series that will debut in April.

Susan loves to bring her knowledge of writing, yoga, and mindfulness to schools, libraries, and yoga studios. This is Susan’s fifth year working with Behind the Book. You can find out more about her at: www.susanverde.com.
About the Student Artists

DTCC offers virtual programs around diversity and corporate social responsibility topics, to foster connectivity among employees during the virtual work environment. This was the first program focused on literacy and environmental sustainability and for the entire family.

About the Behind the Book

Behind the Book brings authors and their books into classrooms to build literacy skills and create a community of lifelong readers and writers. Working with classes from Pre-K through 12th grade, our series of workshops is designed to bring books to life and inspire students to reach their full potential. Behind the Book is embedded in the class curriculum, nurtures critical thinking, creativity, and self-confidence in New York City public school students. All programs meet the Common Core Learning Standards.
